To brush up on sth

To review or refresh your knowledge or a skill that you had in the past

I would really like to brush up on my French.

My sister decided to brush up on her Spanish before she went on holiday.

A lot of my students like to brush up on Advanced grammar ONE DAY before their exam.

To bring about

To cause/to make something happen/the reason for a particular situation

Sometimes new government policies bring about positive changes in healthcare.

Her hard work and dedication brought about fantastic results in her Cambridge English exam.

Technology has brought about huge improvements/advances in communication.

To cut back/down on sth

To reduce how much of something you are using, so you consume it at a moderated level.

Sometimes, when people are trying to lose weight, they cut back on sugary/unhealthy foods.

Cutting back on electricity is fundamental if we want to see a stop to global warming.

To set aside/to set sth. aside

Preserving/keeping something for a particular use, e.g. time/money

I have decided to set aside 100€ ecery month so that I can have some savings and go on holiday.

To look into sth.

To investigate/examine a situation more closely

The police looked into the theft.

The school is looking into ways to improve the performance of their students.

I have looked into the pros and cons of the situation.

To put off sth/to put sth off

To postpone/delay something

My students tend to put off their homework until the last day.

I always put off going to the gym until the end of the day,

My boss put off the meeting.

I put off the wedding until next year.

To turn up
(sth/sb turns up)

To appear/arrive, usually unexpectedly

My student turned up halfway through the class.

Sometimes, students turn up months after buring my course telling me they have passed.

I went to a terrible restaurant where the waitor turned up after 20 minutes.

To go over sth

To review/examine sth thoroughly or in detail

Go over your homework before you hand it in to your teacher.

At the end of every week we go over new vocabulary my students learnt.

I always go over my presentation notes to be more prepared.

To take on

To accept/undertake more responsibility/a task/a challenge

I was offered the role as team leader/captain.

I took on a new project at work.

A wedding planner is going to take on the responsibility of planning the wedding.

To run out of sth

To use up your whole supply of something

I ran out of food (because I ate it all)

I ran out of toilet paper once.

Last week, I ran out of coffee at home.